

Call for Participants:

Seminar series on current “Anxieties of Democracy”

The SSRC’s Anxieties of Democracy program invites applications from early and advanced doctoral students to participate in a 2-part Seminar series on current “anxieties of democracy,” led by the Council’s first Democracy Fellow, Professor Pierre Rosanvallon of the Collège de France.

When: Monday, Nov. 9, and Nov. 16, 10am-12:30pm, followed by lunch.

Where: Social Science Research Council Headquarters, Brooklyn, NY

Pierre Rosanvallon, Professor and Chair of Modern and Contemporary History of Politics at the Collège de France, is renowned for his original historical and theoretical approach to the study of contemporary democracy. He has just released Le bon gouvernement (Seuil, 2015), the fourth volume in a series on the transformations of democracy in the 21st century.

Lorenzetti, “Allegory of Good Government” (detail), Siena, 1338

To apply for these seminars, please send one paragraph describing the relevance of the Anxieties of Democracy program’s themes and/or Prof.

Rosanvallon’s work to your current or future research interests, to democracy@ssrc.org by Monday, October 26, 5pm. More details to follow.

For more information on the SSRC’s Anxieties of Democracy program, please visit our website:
<http://www.ssrc.org/programs/anxieties-of-democracy/>